LESSIG—REED

On Monday morning, June 21st, promptly at four o'clock, when people with less important business were soundly sleeping Mr. Frank Lessig led to the altar of St. John's Reformed church Miss Magdalene Reed and using the beautiful ring ceremony of the Reformed Church, took her for his wife, the pastor of St. John's church, Rev. J. Albert Eyer officiating. Mr. Chester Culp acted as best man and Miss Ruth Reed, a sister of the bride, as bride's maid. The members of the immediate families together with a few very intimate friends witnessed the ceremony. A sumptuous wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents immediately after which the happy young couple left Bedford in their touring car for a "honeymoon" in the Southland. The groom is a prominent young business man of Bedford having been identified for some years with the First National Bank, and since April first with the Bedford-Somerset Auto Co. The bride is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Reed and is the organist of St. John's Reformed church. No young people ever entered upon their "new life" with the best wishes of more friends than do "Frank and Magdalene."

Deffbaugh—Bankes.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deffbaugh on East Pitt Street was the scene of a pretty wedding at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon when Miss Margaret Deffbaugh was given in marriage by her father to John L. Bankes, Dr. H. E. Wieand officiating. The ring ceremony was used. Miss Kate Bankes, a sister of the groom was Maid of Honor and Fred Deffbaugh an uncle of the bride acted as best man, while little Kathleen Heit made a very charming flower girl.

Immediately after the ceremony an elaborate dinner was served to a number of invited guests. The young couple left on the evening train for their honeymoon trip. They will visit Harrisburg, Philadelphia and other places. After their return they will be at home to their friends at their rooms on East Pitt Street.

Both the bride and groom are well known people, the groom having been employed for some years as a clerk in Straub's Clothing Store. They have the best wishes of a host of friends for their future happiness.

Goad—Schnably

Miss Mary M. Schnably of this place and Mr. Cloyd F. Goad of Hopewell were united in marriage at eight o'clock Wednesday morning at the Methodist Parsonage by Rev. J. T. Bell. After the ceremony the young people left for a honeymoon trip to Pittsburgh and Niagara Falls. They expect to return Monday and after a short time will reside in Hopewell.

The bride is a daughter of John Schnably of West Pitt Street and has been employed in the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. at this place for several years.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Goad, of Hyndman but has been employed at Hopewell for some time. The young people have the best wishes of all their friends.

STOLEN AUTO RECOVERED

Dennis Lewis and Loren Fisher, supposed to be from Somerset County, were arrested Monday at Jersey Shore by members of the state Constabulary, on the charge of having in their possession an automobile stolen from Bedford Springs last Friday night. The young men were brought here Monday night and at a hearing before Justice of Peace J. S. Blymyer, were held without bail for the next session of court, charged with having stolen the car which belonged to N. E. Miller of Myersdale.

IS SHE RIGHT?

NEW YORK. Make marriage more difficult.

This is the way to promote matrimonial happiness, says Miss Lucille Pugh, lawyer, who has appeared in scores of divorce cases in 12 years practice here.

Miss Pugh says: Marriage without love is legalized prostitution.

Fewer impulsive marriages would mean fewer divorces.

Reducing the grounds for divorce to adultery invites law-breaking.

Although there are more divorces than there were, it does not mean more unhappiness, but simply that divorce no longer is a disgrace.

"There should be laws making it illegal to marry until a certain time after engagement," thinks Miss Pugh. "This would give a cooling off period and many improperly mated people would never marry. Uniform state laws providing a year's lapse before remarriage after divorce should be adopted. Federal divorce laws cannot be passed, for marriage and divorce are functions of the state."

OR IS HE RIGHT?

NEW YORK. Make divorces more difficult.

Therein is the secret of matrimonial happiness, declares Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of famous Trinity church, Wall Street, who has married hundreds of couples here.

Dr. Manning says:

Many marriages today are nothing less than legalized free-love.

If there were no divorce courts many people who now divorced would find it possible to be happy together.

The increase in the number of divorces means we are facing the question of whether marriage is to remain an institution or is to be held sacred only by religious groups.

There should be a federal divorce law making adultery the only cause for divorce," says Dr. Manning. "Marriage after divorce should be made impossible. Some divorce laws now make matrimony dissoluble at will. That is not a foundation upon which civilization can longer endure."

BRYAN'S COMMENTS ON REPUBLICAN PLANKS

"FEARFUL AND WONDERFUL" PLANKS

Chicago. Oh, harmony what crimes have been committed in thy name! Harmony is the giant of the Philistines in this convention and no David near with a pebble and sling. A thousand delegates, leaders in public life and not more than a handful who are willing to fight for their convictions in the face of opposition. One man tried to present a minority report on a number of economic questions. Chairman Lodge had difficulty in compelling the crowd to listen—he had to threaten to clear the galleries, and then the dissenting committeeman could get no state to second his demand for a roll call.

The League of Nations plank is one of the most perfect specimens of art in the way of compromise that can be found in all convention literature. Practically every delegate accepts it with mental reservation. It is a mosaic made of a multitude of sentences of all sizes and colors. Those who believe that our nation ought to lend its counsel to other nations in the interest of the universal peace can thunder forth approval of the first sentence: "The Republican party stands for agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world." Could anything be more emphatic? And what kind of an agreement shall it be? One like the President brought back from Paris with the approval of some twenty or more nations. Never! Of this the platform says: "The convention signed by the President in Paris fails signally to accomplish this great purpose, and contains stipulations not only intolerable for independent people, but certain to produce injustice, hostility and controversy among nations which it purports to prevent."

If not the covenant as brought back by the President, what about the covenant as amended by more than two-thirds of the Republican senators? Even this is thrown into the discard with the President's covenant at the demand of the irreconcilables.

But the platform says: "The senators performed their duty faithfully" both the thirty-four who voted for ratification with reservation and the fifteen who prevented ratification with reservations. Evidently they were both right. They were compliments of each other, although the language with which they described each other was not always complimentary. And the platform proceeds to say: "We approve their conduct and honor their courage and fidelity." No matter what they did, it was honorable, and above all they were courageous. They showed their fidelity by fighting each other. Why did they not save some of their fidelity for this convention and fight here? Why did the lion and the lamb lie down together, the lamb on the inside?

The convention is so inspired by the "honor," "courage" and "fidelity" shown by its senators that it concludes its platform by "pointing to its history and relying on its fundamental principles." It admits, nay even declares that the party has the "genius, courage, and the constructive ability" to do the job. Suppose those who read the platform happen to consult history—not ancient history, but history about eight years old. What will they find? A convention much like this, managed by the same identical men, quite as proud of themselves then as they are now, and just as sure that they had a monopoly of "genius, courage, and constructive ability," and yet only two states in the union applauded their remarks. Forty-six states voted on the roll call, leaving Utah and Vermont to certify to their "genius, courage, and constructive ability."

But they laid their crowns at the feet of King Harmony, and the leader will proceed to play the clairvoyant act and tell how a great piece of good fortune is coming to the Republican party about the fourth of March.

And what will Senator have to say, who has been exposing the profiteers and demanding legislation that will protect producers and consumers from the greed of the middle-man? What answer will he make when the audience hurls that little eighteen-word anti-profiteering plank at him, and give him the horse laugh? But harmony demands acquiescence, aye, even the appearance of gratification. A story is told of a party of men who went out on a hunting trip. It was agreed that they would take turns cooking, and to prevent complaint any person who criticized the cooking would have to take his turn next. The first morning one of the party had trouble with his steak, and with some emphasis declared: "This is the toughest piece of steak I ever ate"—and then remembering the rule, added: "but I like it."

An Colonel—won't he be little embarrassed when he reads the soldiers plank at a meeting of the Legion? It is much easier to give the service men an imperishable remembrance" apiece than a bonus. The soldier asked for bread and received a bouquet it doesn't cost so much and isn't so hard to collect. I wonder how many of the war profiteers would be willing to trade their newly made fortunes for an imperishable remembrance." The Republican party started out quite bravely in the bonus matter, but it couldn't keep up its gait. A merchant who on retiring from business turned his store over to his son, advised how to be popular without expense to himself. "Subscribe to the building fund of every church proposed then fight the location." The Republican party can't find a location for a soldier's bonus.

But the most pathetic situation is presented by the dodging of the prohibition question. Read the platform and see how gleeful the Republican party is over the record of tile in Short Order.

Tramples Life From Five-Foot Reptile. Lock Haven, Pa., June 17. A combat between a buck deer and a five foot blacksnake was witnessed yesterday in a field about a mile and a half west of Youngdale by Emmanuel Arnold who had been fishing in McElhatten run for trout and was walking to this city via Castanica. The fight was of short duration, for the deer trampled the life out of the big snake in a few seconds.

Arnold saw the buck and a doe in a field near the woods, and the next instant the buck leaped in the air four times in succession and came down with its feet close together. As he started toward the field to make an investigation the deer ran into the woods and disappeared. On reaching the spot where the animal had been standing, Arnold was surprised to see a large blacksnake, crushed and mangled by the sharp pointed hoofs of the deer, which were bunched together each time the deer landed on the reptile.

BEDFORD MERCHANTS

ADOPT NEW CLOSING HOUR

Closing at 5—o'clock

By mutual agreement, the following Bedford business places have agreed to close their doors at five o'clock P. M. during the months of July and August, except on Saturday evening when they will remain open as usual.

This action was taken owing to business being slack after five o'clock during the mid summer months, and for the further purpose of affording all persons engaged in business, an opportunity for more time for the home and garden in the evenings, which work has gotten behind owing to the late wet weather.

It is to be hoped that this information may become as widely circulated as possible so that patrons may not be to any extent inconvenienced by the movement.

It should also be remembered also that the change from six to five o'clock closing applies only to the months of July and August and not to the business of Saturdays.

AN APPRECIATIVE SOCIAL

The Bedford M. E. Sunday School and Epworth League held a social with a very interesting program participated in by members of the Sunday School room on Thursday evening, June 17th. At this time a handsome gold watch and chain were presented by the Sunday School and League to Mr. Elias Diehl, in appreciation of his long, faithful and very efficient services rendered as Superintendent of the Sunday School and President of the Epworth League, prior to his departure, with his family for California.

THRIFT COMPANY MEETING

A conference of the postmasters, those interested in education and representatives of the different industries of the county, was held in the court house here Tuesday morning and although the attendance was unusually small the meeting was of considerable interest.

The conference was called by W. Harrison Walker, chairman of the Third Federal District, in the interest of the thrift campaign, the purpose being to teach thrift and discuss the establishment of thrift courses in the curriculum of the public schools. A luncheon was served the guests at the Fort Bedford Inn.

LIVE STOCK

LESS FARM ANIMALS IN 1919
Interesting to Note That Mules and Milch Cows Show Slight Increase in Numbers

A slight increase in the number of milch cows and mules and a moderate decrease in the number of other cattle (calves, steers, bulls, and cows not for milk), horses, sheep, and swine are the outstanding features of a survey of live stock on farms and ranges of the United States on January 1, 1920, compared with a year ago, made by the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture.

Milch cows have increased about 272,000 head, or 1.2 per cent; mules increased 41,000 head or 0.8 per cent; "other" cattle (as designated above) decreased 700,000 head, or 1.6 per cent; horses decreased 373,000 head, or 1.7 per cent; sheep decreased 251,000 head, or 0.5 per cent; and swine decreased 1,675,000 head, or 2.2 per cent.

The estimated number of animals on farms and ranges January 1 are 21,109,000 horses, 4,995,000 mules, 23,747,000 milch cows, 44,385,000 other cattle, 48,615,000 sheep, and 72,909,000 hogs. The total of all animals is 215,760,000, which is 2,686,000 head, or 1.2 per cent, less than a year ago.

The total value of all farm animals on January 1 was about $8,561,000,000, which is a shrinkage of $266,000,000, or 3 per cent, compared with a year ago. It is an interesting observation that mules and milch cows which in-

The Secret of a Superlative Tire

The whole question of a super-tire is a matter of principles. For there is nothing exclusive in the industry. No patents, no secret formulas prevent a conscientious maker from building the best.

But cost and competition modify ideals. The Brunswick idea is to pay perfection's price and get it.

That has been the Brunswick policy since 1845. And it accounts for the growing preference for Brunswick Tires. Motorists expect the utmost from a tire bearing the name of Brunswick—and get it.

You, too, will be convinced by your first Brunswick, that here is an extraordinary tire, and that more money cannot buy a better.

Better tires of their type are impossible—or better tubes. That we guarantee.

Try ONE Brunswick—learn how it excels.

Drill GRO-ALL FERTILIZERS With Your Wheat And Cut Your Labor Cost

THERE is only one answer to the present high cost of farm labor—increased per acre production. More bushels per acre mean lower per bushel costs, and larger profit per acre.

Gro-All fertilizers will not cultivate more acres of wheat, but they will grow more bushels per acre.

Under ordinary conditions, and on the soils generally used for grain and grass in the Eastern States, the Gro-All Grain and Grass Grower (2-12-2) is the ideal mixture for Fall seeding.

Gro-All fertilizers are carefully formulated with full knowledge of crop requirements. They are manufactured in four modern and complete plants by men who realize and appreciate the importance of perfect mechanical and drilling conditions.

Solve your labor and other production problems by using liberal quantities of Gro-All high analysis fertilizers.

Have an "Old Settler."

With a known lineage trailing through 3,000 dusty years the hare may well be called one of the ancient inhabitants of the earth. Among the oldest Jews the hare and its near relative, the coney of the rocks, were excluded from the ranks of edible animals; but as the flesh of the hare was found to be both nutritious and wholesome the prejudice against it gradually disappeared and it began to grow and domesticate as a food.

KEEPING SHEEP FOR MUTTON

There Are Many Areas Where Animals Could Be Kept to Advantage for Meat and Wool.

Sheep are not very generally kept on farms for supplying the home family with meat. There are many areas, especially in hilly or mountainous regions, where nearly every farm could keep a few mutton sheep to advantage. Boys' and girls' clubs in some parts of the country have done much to foster home production of mutton. Sheep naturally graze over rather wide areas and seek variety of plants.

Sheep Are Useful in Pasturing Off Weeds in Standing Corn After Cultivation Stops.

This habit particularly adapts them to being kept in large numbers on lands of sparse vegetation or furnishing a variety of grasses or other plants, says the United States department of agriculture. They do better on short and fine grasses than on coarse or high feed. They will eat a good deal of brush and, if confined to small areas, will do a fair job at cleaning up land. When used in this way, or on land producing brush only, they can not be expected to prove very satisfactory in the production of good lambs or good wool.

PROPER CARE OF YOUNG PIGS

First Thing to Be Done is to Cut Off Four Sharp, Hard Tusks—Never Pull Them.

Soon after pigs are born, the four sharp, hard tusks, two in the upper and two in the lower jaws should be cut off. Take a pair of nippers and cut the teeth off, but not too near the gums. Often these tusks cut the sow's teats, make them sore and she will not let the pigs suck. Then, also, the pigs cut themselves with those tusks, and sometimes stick them through their tongue, cannot suck, and starve. They cause sore mouth. They are soft and easily removed.

A pair of sharp scissors will cut them easily but under no circumstances should they be pulled out. If it is seen that a pig is getting too fat, it is evidence that it is robbing its mates. To prevent this, take a sharp knife and cut its rooster in two or three places, deep enough to make it sore, and it will stop taking more than its share.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR PROFITS

Only About 4 or 5 Per Cent of Live Stock Is Purebred and Demand Steadily Growing.

There are many opportunities for good profits in the breeding of purebred live stock. When it is considered that only about 4 or 5 per cent of all our stock is purebred and that the demand for better stock is steadily growing it must be clear that there is still room for capable men with a love for live stock to make breeding a profitable business. But the man who is not prepared either through training or inclination to devote a large part of his time to the care and management of his stock is surely making a mistake to engage in the purebred business.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Self-feeders save time and labor in feeding swine.

The hog is the cheapest producer of animal fat.

No animal parasite is quite so persistent as the hog louse.

With the sow particularly good feeding and plenty of exercise are important.

If proper care is given the ewe previous to lambing many losses can be prevented.

In the selection of the brood sow it is essential that uniformity of size and quality be maintained.

Necrobacillosis, known in pigs as sore mouth, bull nose and snuffles, is controlled by cleaning and disinfecting house and feeding places, and isolation of affected pigs.

IS THE PRESIDENCY FOR SALE?

Disclosures before the Senate investigating committee prove that the G. O. P. is still under the control of those "bosses" who adhere to the principle that it is "money that makes the mare go." "No candidate for the Presidential nomination at the hands of the Chicago convention has come out of the investigation unscathed. The use of large campaign funds is confessed, varying from something under $100,000 expended for those candidates who have gathered only a handful of delegates, to the admitted expenditure of more than a million and a half dollars to "influence" delegates for General Wood.

Early in the fall of 1919 certain Democrats warned the country of the Republican bosses' plan to buy the Presidency; that immense funds were being raised to control the election. Recent disclosures prove the warning to be both timely and justified.

If such vast sums are being spent in the interest of furthering the claims of individuals in a party fight, what a flood of gold may the country expect to see released in an effort to sweep into the White House the abettor in this deluge of debauchery who survived the Chicago test!

INDICTS OWN PARTY'S RECORD.

It would be difficult to imagine a more scathing indictment of the present Republican-controlled Congress than that uttered by one of its own leaders in the house. Speaking on the floor of the House recently, Mr. Mann said:

"Congress has been in almost continuous session for almost a year. The Republican side has a reasonably large majority. If we say to the country, as we will say if this rule passes, that the Republican majority in a year's time has been unable to bring in legislation and perfect it where it is subject to amendment, it acknowledges its impotency and its incapacity. It will be called to the attention of your constituents on every stump that the Republican party has not enacted much constructive legislation, and it will be told in addition that the Republican majority of the House was afraid to enact legislation under the ordinary rules and was incapacitated from following the ordinary practice."

Mr. Mann was denouncing the rule prohibiting amendments to and limiting debate on the bonus bill, a bill intended to raise a billion and a half dollars. The "steering committee" has ordered the bill O. K.'d by it to be passed, or no bill at all and both Democrats and Republicans denounced the rule because it forbade them the opportunity of even offering amendments to remove objectionable taxation features. Minority members desired to amend the bill to raise the bonus money by taxing war profits but the "steering committee" had ordered the tax passed to the consumer.

This rule having been adopted, we have Mr. Mann's word for it that the Republican party "acknowledges its impotency and incapacity."

CHAUTAUQUA ENTERTAINERS

SOME "JOY NIGHT" HEADLINERS

ADA ROACH COMPANY.

"SMOOTHING out the wrinkles of worry" is the chief aim of Ada Roach's company of entertainers. When Ada Roach smiles every countenance is lighted up; when she sings every heart sings with her. Her stories and character sketches have the sparkle of genius. Her unvarying good humor is infectious. Before the program is half completed some slight gesture of her hand is sufficient to send the audience into gales of laughter.

Ruth Freeman, another member of the company, which is to be heard on Joy Night of Chautauqua wins her share of popular approval in another style. It is difficult to state who is more enjoyable her mimicry of dialect numbers or her vocal mastery of the choir.

A third member of the company is "Billy" Williams. He toured with Redpath musical organizations as a tenor soloist and pianist until the navy called him. While in the service he was a member of one of the navy bands. He is an expert vocalist and instrumentally and will capture many Chautauqua friends with his winning smile.

He is highly qualified to present the story of a people never properly understood in America.

Miss Petunia Belcher is trying to get her name on the program to sing at the next annual Dog Fair which will probably be held in Dog-town. Efforts are being made on the quiet to prevent her name appearing on the program in this capacity as it would in all probability cut the attendance half and would not add greatly to the comfort and pleasure of the dogs present.

Hen Billings who was hired a week ago, beginning Monday, by Bub Smithers, the Turkey foot grocer, as a salesman, has been fired off the job. There has since been a great deal of explaining done by both sides as to why Hen failed to "make good." Hen has told it that Bub is not conducting a legitimate business and that a salesman, it mattered now how honest and frank he tried to be, could not have the confidence of a customer owing to the fact that they had been deceived so often by Bub in his past dealings with them. When Bub heard this he said the reason he fired Hen was that he is no salesman; that he is now confident if he was placed on a main thoroughfare in the city to peddle ice water at bargain prices he could not sell a cupful.

The Clearville preacher preached a very able sermon last Sunday on "Economy" and after the sermon, when the hat was passed around those who had heretofore been giving dimes and nickels gave pennies and the penny crowd did not respond at all. The preacher's wife was heard to tell the preacher she was glad he had gotten that sermon out of his system.

JERRY DECIDES

By LEOLA DREW

(© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"I suppose they sent me here because I was named after you, Uncle Gerald," Jerry dug into his grapefruit aggressively. "I hate Gerald. Didn't they ever call you Jerry?"

"Men do," responded Marbury absently. All of his answers to Jerry had been absent-minded ones for the past two weeks. He had run out of details the second day after Jerry's sudden arrival.

"Miss Millard calls you Jerry, doesn't she?"

Marbury frowned and wiped off a globule of juice from his waistcoat.

"You should eat that in a bathtub, old man. Can't you be careful?"

Jerry pushed back his plate comfortably.

"I'm through," he announced. "What are we going to do today?"

Marbury read his newspaper, pretending not to hear. As an entertainment committee of one for Margaret's one and only he had officiated for two weeks, and the thing was getting on his nerves. There was no special reason why his sister should have sent Jerry on for a month. She knew he lived in an exclusive bachelor apartment with one Jap manservant. Kato had left the first week, after Jerry had brought in a dozen fresh crabs and put them in the ice box.

"No delight in undisciplined youth," he had said smilingly. "Me go reluctantly but soon."

Since then Marbury had been at the mercy of Jerry. He had constituted himself private secretary and houseboy pro tem, when he was not in the basement chumming with the engineer, or on the roof sending off aeroplanes to the joy of Madison avenue. When his uncle returned from the club before dinner he would give a report on the day's calls.

"That tailor wants you to pay the spring bill anyhow. Says you can let the summer one go till fall. I told him you had the measles badly and had left for the country. And Mrs. Jocelyn asked if you could go to her her hands deep in her pockets. This was Nan Millard, and Jerry did some hard thinking on her account. Before the coming of Mrs. Hamilton she had been Marbury's principal concern in life.

"Did Miss Millard," Jerry began, and stopped short, fingering the pearl studs on the bed. He had almost thought out loud. "I mean, Uncle Gerald, which are you going to marry?"

Marbury's fingers fumbled over his ties in the drawer. He missed Kato's ministrations.

"I like Nan the best," Jerry added in what he tried to make an offhand manner.

"So do I, old man, come to think of it," Marbury answered between his teeth. "Trouble is, the ladies have the preference. You can't club them and race for the nearest honeymoon cave, you know. Miss Millard is not accepting a man with only ten thousand a year. She lacks the essential feminine quality of sympathy, which is a bit beyond you, isn't it, Jerry?"

"Has the widow got it?" asked Jerry earnestly. Marbury stared at him fixedly.

"How do you know she's a widow?" "If she's Mrs. Somebody, you couldn't marry her unless she was, could you?"

Marbury was silent. Oddly enough, the boy's words stirred up a dormant sense of honor. He wondered where old Hamilton was, anyhow? Left in some convenient post abroad, probably. There had been a French divorce, he knew, and the rumor that Frances would marry somebody he had been jealous of over there. All at once he looked at the photograph on the mantel, at Nan's clear, wide eyes and sunny smile, at the sweetness and wholesomeness of her girlhood, and he sighed.

"I like her best, too, old man," he said, "only she won't have me."

The next day Jerry called up Miss Millard and invited her to call for him and take him to lunch so they could get acquainted. She was ever so much better than her pictures, he decided at first sight. Brown eyes and reddish brown hair, and little freckles over her nose like gold dust. And he loved to answer her questions about Marbury. She was so delicate and naive about it. Jerry understood perfectly. So he helped her out. First he gave his uncle a character for good temper and kindness and all around splendid fellowship. Then he told how worried he was about him. They were in a well-known restaurant, at a table near the window, and Jerry felt safe.

"I can get him here in about two minutes," Jerry said eagerly. "He's just over at the club, and he'd come in one hop if you said so. He's terribly worried about you."

"He seems to be," smiled Nan. "You don't understand, Jerry."

"Sure I do," insisted Jerry. "But he just sees the widow because he needs sympathy. He says you haven't any, and you want somebody with more money. I don't believe a word he says," he added, hastily, at the fire in her eyes. "But why did you throw him down?"

"He never asked me," laughed Nan, scornfully. "Jerry, I think you're flourishing."

But she spoke to an empty chair. Jerry reached a telephone booth and called the club in triumph.

"Say, that you, Uncle Gerald? This is Jerry. Well, it's O. K. Come on over and see for yourself. At the Regina, Nan and me. Yep. She said so. She said you'd never asked her, so I did for you. What? Oh, all right. I know. We've got a party line out home, too, where everybody hears what you say. Come soon."

He hung up and wiped his face off happily.

"I guess that hangs the widow," he said. "If he doesn't ask me to be best man, he's a quitter."

Centenarians.

So far as we know, most centenarians do not live lives in very marked contrast to those around them. Some of them set store by certain simple habits, others drink or smoke or do both, but always in moderation and true temperance; eat cooked or uncooked food as occasion or desire may determine; and at last drop from the tree of life like an apple fully ripe, and mankind notes their fall and goes on like them, each in his own way. Occasionally one of them, like the celebrated Parr, achieves fame for something that he has done besides living to an exceptionally old age. Parr lived in the reign of ten English kings and queens and died untimely at the age of one hundred and fifty-two from a slight change in his habits and environment, leaving as his chief achievement the record of his years, which has not been surpassed in modern times.

Immortal Deborah.

Hah! she beats them all. The Deborah, for she dared to cast back into the teeth of a shrinking "warrior" these immortal words, lofty in irony: "The Lord will deliver Sisera into the hand of a woman!" And cowering Baark flung himself up from the sod and went after her. But it was Deborah who led on and who won one of the great battles in history. It all occurred in 1296 B. C. Deborah was a prophetess in Israel. Israel was again in danger from a heathen king and his mighty captain, Sisera. A loving wife, a supreme prophetess, a mother, this Deborah—and she was the first epic poet of the world. The song of Deborah in the book of Judges in Holy Writ has the breath of the peaks of genius. She knew herself, and she knew her God—and that it was forces of the spirit that won, not merely the roar and clack of men.—Chicago Journal.

GET WISE

No car has so many jokes told about as the Ford and no man enjoys these jokes any more than the motor king himself, Mr. Ford. Some time ago Mr. Ford was making a speech in Detroit to a lot of manufacturers and in the course of his remarks he told that they were turning out a Ford car every three minutes. "That's not enough," shouted a man in the audience. Mr. Ford didn't pay any attention to the interruption but went on to say that he was installing machinery which would turn out a car every minute and a half. The man in the audience shouted again. "That's not enough." Mr. Ford stopped the discourse to ask the man why that wasn't enough and the man replied that a "snicker" was horn every minute. Ford laughed the heartiest and remarked that if that is the rate of birth he would have to put in more modern machinery.

When a Woman is Nervous—Worried

Most women neglect their health, and for this they pay the penalty. Any woman will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her life. If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-round tonic that braces the entire body, overcoming nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness and a run-down condition.

WILKES - BARRE, PA. — "A few years ago I went down in health; my nerves were bad and I became very weak and thin and would have severe pains in my head. I also suffered with backaches. I could not sleep at night I was so nervous, and was not able to do any work. I doctored and took medicines but could find nothing that would give me any relief until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and this completely restored my health. I regained my weight and my general health was much better than it had been previously. Knowing how beneficial the 'Prescription' was in my case I feel safe in recommending it." — MRS. BRYAN'S COMMENTS its senators and members of congress—with what "honor," "courage," and fidelity they have done these great and small things; see how proudly they assert the position of the Republican party on other questions big and little, and then to think that they would run away from their most stupendous act because a few ex-liquor dealers and some thirsty worshippers of the rum god made threats. Think of the homes that prohibition safeguards of the lives it saves from ruin, of the jails it is emptying, of the crimes it is preventing. Think of the example we have set to those in other lands as we shake the stronghold of the demon alcohol with the testimony that our nation gives. And then pity the cowardice of the representatives of the thirty-four prohibition states without a spokesman when the crisis comes—of forty-five ratifying states without a delegate brave enough to propose an amendment indorsing the prohibition policy or pledging enforcement of a law passed by congress and upheld by the supreme court!

But by the surrender of their convictions on a great moral question and by their abandonment of the priceless interest of the people on this great subject they prevented discord. Oh harmony, I repeat, what crimes are committed in thy name!

GOITRE

Caused Shortness of Breath and Nervousness For Beaver Falls Lady—Relieved by External Remedy.

Note: It would be illegal to publish these statements if they were not true.

Mrs. Fred Wollin, 2507 7th Ave., Beaver Falls, Pa., says in her own home paper, The Beaver Falls Tribune: "I have been using Sorbol Quadruple five weeks. My inward goitre is much smaller and my health much improved. Before using, my feet were swollen, had fainting spells, my breath was short, very nervous, and my heart would feel like it would jump out. I will gladly tell anyone about this wonderful remedy, even by letter."

Sorbol Quadruple comes in small bottles containing enough for most cases. It will not stain or irritate. Leave the parts in a healthy, normal condition. Requires ten minutes daily.

TWO BREEDS IN SAME FLOCK

Crossing Is Prevented by Keeping Male of One Breed One Year and Another the Next.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

While keeping two distinct breeds of poultry in one yard without mixing the breeds seems difficult, it can be accomplished easily and with satisfactory results, as shown by the account of an experience just received from a New England poultry raiser. One of the kinds kept is a so-called egg breed, the other being a general-purpose variety of poultry. The method of preventing crossing is as follows:

One year, roosters of the egg-laying breed are retained and used for breeding no other males being kept. The following year roosters of only the general-purpose stock are kept. The difference in the color of eggs of the two breeds selected is so great that hatching eggs have always been selected with a certainty as to the breed laying them. The plan necessitates introducing new males, but the advantages of keeping the blood lines of two breeds separate outweigh the slight cost of purchasing the males. The department of agriculture points out that when this method is followed on two neighboring farms an exchange of roosters might readily be arranged.

REMODELING POULTRY HOUSE

Many Stuffy Old Structures Can Be Rebuilt With Little Trouble—Cost Is Small.

Many farms have old style, closed-up poultry houses with poor light and ventilation; also old sheds and other buildings of little use for other purposes that can be remodeled or built over with little difficulty into satisfactory poultry houses, according to the United States department of agriculture.

A building of that kind usually can be made over for less than one-half the cost of constructing a new one; and if the work is well done should give just as good results. Furthermore, the work performed in remodeling the building serves as a good poultry club demonstration in poultry house construction.

KEEP ALL PROFITABLE HENS

Close Attention and Study Must Be Given to Each Individual Fowl—Some Are Layers.

Keep all hens as long as they are profitable. This calls for close attention and the study of each individual hen, but it is work that pays. The man who turns off every hen that reaches the age of two years is pretty sure to sacrifice some of his best layers.

Clean, dry litter, clean water pans and mash hoppers are essential to the health of good layers.

All air that is admitted for ventilation should be so handled that it will not blow on the fowls, especially when they are on the roost at night.

One of the best ways to furnish green food is to hang a cabbage head just high enough so that the fowls will have to jump for it.

A warm, comfortable henhouse will do much to secure a good egg yield, for fowls that are not comfortable cannot lay well.

There is not much danger that healthy, vigorous fowls will become too fat, if compelled to exercise by scratching for the grain part of their ration.

It is necessary to provide the hens with some reason for exercising in winter because they have no incentive to exercise naturally, as they do in summer hunting for bugs and worms, etc.

Altoona's SUBURBAN DAY

Wednesday

With the idea of bettering its summer merchandising efforts the Altoona Booster Association has decided to make uniform the hot weather half holiday.

This will now be held on Thursday and the famous Suburban Day, held for years by these merchants has been changed to WEDNESDAYS.

Out-of-town customers will find this to their advantage---all stores will be open and ready for their patronage.

Wednesday is market day as well as Suburban Day, and on Friday green goods and other perishables must be brought to Altoona for Saturday buyers, making Wednesday the logical Suburban Day!

HELPFUL WORDS FROM A BEDFORD CITIZEN

Is your back lame and painful? Does it ache especially after exertion?

Is there a soreness in the kidney region?

These symptoms suggest weak kidneys.

If so there is danger in delay.

Weak kidneys get weaker fast.

Give your trouble prompt attention.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Your neighbors use and recommend them. Ask your neighbor.

Read this Bedford testimony.

Miss Mary P. Wise, 147 Spring St. says: "I suffered greatly from backaches and distressing pains through my kidneys I couldn't stoop or lift anything without great pain and I also had severe headaches and dizzy spells. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Heckerman's Drug Store removed the backaches and pains in my kidneys and the headaches and dizzy spells left. The action of my kidneys also became regulated I am pleased to have you use my recommendation for Doan's Kidney Pills at any time you wish.

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Miss Wise had, Foster-Mulburn Co., Mfrs. Buffalo, N. Y.

WHITE-SHELLED EGG LAYERS

Fowls of Mediterranean Breeds Best Suited for This Purpose—Classed as Nonsitters.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Poultry of the Mediterranean or breeds are best suited for the production of white-shelled eggs. Representatives of this class are bred largely for the production of eggs rather than for meat production. Among the popular breeds of this class are: Leghorn, Minorca, Ancona, and Andalusian. One of the outstanding characteristics of the egg breeds is the fact that they are classed as nonsitters. That is, as a rule, they do not become broody and hatch their eggs. When fowls of this class are kept artificial incubation and brooding are usually employed.

You Want a Tractor That Anyone Around the Farm Can Operate

I kept this fact in mind while I was looking over the tractor field to pick the one I was going to sell to my friends.

I never looked twice at tractors with complicated parts or gears exposed to dirt. They bring too much trouble and expense to the farmer. I found the tractor I was looking for in the G-O.

It's so simple any boy can keep it running. It has less chances of getting out of order because it has fewer wearing parts. Almost anyone who can handle a tool can make the few adjustments ever necessary, right in the field.

And the troubles that go with gear transmissions are eliminated by the G-O advanced driving mechanism. It gives six speeds, forward and reverse, without using gears or clutch. No gears to strip.

Furthermore, it hasn't a gear or chain on the rear wheels. Power is applied direct to the rims by the G-O Patented Method. Every gear and bearing is enclosed in dust-tight casing and running in oil.

Come in and look over the G-O, or let me bring it out to your place and show how it pulls three 14-in. plows at the rate of ten acres a day on a low consumption of kerosene. Write me for a free catalog.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. F. E. FITZWATER, D. D.,
Teacher of English Bible in the Moody
Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 27

REVIEW: THE NOBLE LIFE OF SAMUEL.

SELECTION FOR READING--I Sam. 12:1-5, 13-25.

GOLDEN TEXT--I will teach you the good and the right way. I Sam. 12:4.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL--I Sam. 11:16-23.

PRIMARY TOPIC--Stories About Samuel.

JUNIOR TOPIC--A Boy Who Became a Great Man.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC--Strong Points in Samuel's Character.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC--Samuel's Service to His People.

The method of review must largely be determined by the teacher and the grade of the class. For the junior and intermediate grades a good way will be to make it biographical, centering in Gideon, Eli, Samuel, Eli's sons, Saul and David. Of course, the outstanding personality is Samuel.

For the older classes the following from Peloubet's Select Notes is an interesting and profitable method:

"This review, suited to older classes only, will deal with difficult questions involved in or suggested by the various lessons of the quarter, questions that you may not have had time to discuss adequately during the quarter. Assign one of these to each student, and divide the time evenly among them. The following list of topics may prove helpful, but it is intended to be only suggestive:

Lesson I. How to put religion into our state and national government.

Lesson II. How to utilize better than we are doing the power of women.

Lesson III. How to bring together and use the righteous and brave minority.

Lesson IV. How to single out and help the deserving poor.

Lesson V. How to develop the religious capacities of children.

Lesson VI. How to open the eyes of parents to their children's faults.

Lesson VII. How to bring to bear upon public questions the decisive power of prayer.

Lesson VIII. How to select the best leaders in church and state.

Lesson IX. How to develop individual initiative without the loss of discipline.

Lesson X. How godly men may influence the progress of affairs.

Lesson XI. How to inspire children with lofty ideals.

Lesson XII. How to make our lives serene and trustful.

A plan which can be adapted to all grades is the gathering of the main facts of each lesson and then stating its leading lesson.

The following are suggestions as to the leading lessons:

Lesson for April 4. As Jesus joined the disciples on the way to Emmaus, so he joins all who are journeying life's way in sorrow and says, "Tell me your troubles and perplexities." He wants us to confide in him.

Lesson for April 11. Deborah's judgeship shows that a woman is capable under God not only of the administration of justice, but of leading a nation forth to victory in time of war.

Lesson for April 18. The secret of Gideon's victory was his faith. The ground of his faith was God's word.

Lesson for April 25. Because Ruth forsook country, friends, and her gods for the true God, she has been accorded a place of honor in the ancestry of Christ.

Lesson for May 2. Because Samuel was given in answer to a mother's prayer and was dedicated by her to the Lord's service, the Lord was able to use him in a large way.

Lesson for May 9. Parental indulgence results in the shame and ruin of both Eli and his sons.

Lesson for May 16. When God's people repent of their sins and turn to him for pardon he will not only forgive, but will fight their battles and give victory.

Lesson for May 23. When the people took their eyes off God, their King, they desired a man as king in conformity to the practice of the heathen round about.

Lesson for May 30. Because Jonathan felt the call of God to deliver his people and waited for God's sign for him, he was able to go forward and win a victory in such a way as to show that God was with him.

Lesson for June 6. Because Saul disobeyed the command of God, judgment from the hand of God fell upon him.

Lesson for June 13. God looketh not on the outward appearance, but on the heart; his choices are not arbitrary.

Lesson for June 20. "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want."

The Supreme Beauty.
Mark well also the splendor of this idea of salvation. It is not merely final "safety," to be forgiven sin, to evade the curse. It is not, vaguely, "to get to heaven." It is to be conformed to the Image of the Son. It is for these poor elements to attain to the supreme beauty.

Seeing and Judging.
Human nature is so constituted that all see, and judge better, in the affairs of other men, than in their own. --Terence.

Court Probes Fertilizer Buying Somerset, Pa.—Judge Borkley today appointed a board of visitors to investigate the purchase of fertilizer at the county home farm by the directors of the poor, on petition of citizens who alleged the material was not bought from the lowest bidder. The State Board of Charities, recommended that the poor directors resign.

According to a reliable authority, British aristocracy suffered a heavy toll in the recent world war, says Salt Lake Tribune. The lists include the names of 315 members of "upper classes." This total was made up as follows: One member of the royal family, 23 peers, 44 baronets, 16 knights, 14 members of parliament, 981 "companions," 190 sons of peers, 163 sons of baronets and 303 sons of knights. The succession to 231 hereditary dignities either has been precipitated or their normal descent changed. In the case of the former this situation was due to premature death in action of the holder, or, in the latter, to the death of the immediate heir, and in some cases of successive heirs, 190 of whom were killed. In comparison with the "lower classes," of course, the British aristocracy suffered little; still its record of 3,100 deaths is testimony of the patriotism of the titled Briton.

A recent case in which an innocent man came very near to being sent to prison owing to the fiction tales of movie-mad children, suggests the propriety of firmly enforcing the prohibition against admitting children unaccompanied by parents or guardians to sights and stories which overstimulate their naturally active imaginations and which suggest to them dangerous imitation.

The Mexican woman who gave birth to seven babies the other day is the central figure of a notable achievement, but we think she ought to remember that walking the floor at night with a convention of squalling infants is a job that no ordinary man can negotiate. We agree, however, says Houston Post, that the father of her brood is no ordinary man.

It is said that experiments in Chicago show many children believed to be mentally deficient really lack energy for want of sufficient nourishment. While feeding the children of foreign nations, it would be as well to take more note of our own suffering ones at home.

The ex-czar's sister is confident he and his family still live. This is very likely the desperate hope of sisterly affection, but it is a reminder of the slender tenure of human greatness that the question of the ex-autocrat's life or death has practically ceased to interest the world.

The telephone, telegraph and postal services in Vienna are reported to be "rotten." Here's a good chance for the sob squad to organize another "help-the-enemy-first" movement.
